

WEEK TWO

ROMANS 15:7
Accept One Another

SAY
THIS

Friends accept one another.

WEEK TWO

ROMANS 15:7
Accept One Another

SAY
THIS

Friends accept one another.

DO THIS

MEAL TIME

Ask a Kid: Who is your most "unlikely" friend? Why do you think you're friends?
Ask a Parent: Who was your best friend when you were a kid? What did you like to do together?

REMEMBER THIS

"A friend loves at all times. They are there to help when trouble comes."
Proverbs 17:17, NIV

LIFE
APP

FRIENDSHIP – Using your words and actions to show others you care

DO THIS

MEAL TIME

Ask a Kid: Who is your most "unlikely" friend? Why do you think you're friends?
Ask a Parent: Who was your best friend when you were a kid? What did you like to do together?

REMEMBER THIS

"A friend loves at all times. They are there to help when trouble comes."
Proverbs 17:17, NIV

LIFE
APP

FRIENDSHIP – Using your words and actions to show others you care

RAISING RESPONSIBLE ADULTS

by Reggie Joiner

You're not raising kids, you're raising adults. The real question is what kind of adults are you raising? If you want your children to become responsible adults, then give them responsibilities now.

If you want to guarantee you will raise adults who don't know how to be responsible . . .

- Fix all your kids' problems.
- Protect them from experiencing any kind of physical or emotional pain.
- Make sure you do for them whatever they can do for themselves.
- Give them only what will make them happy. Actually, the best way to ensure your kids grow into unhappy adults is to give them whatever makes them happy as kids.

But if you want them to be fulfilled as adults, give them responsibilities.

Responsibility is an interesting word. It's actually two words: Response and ability. Do you see the link between the two? Help your kids develop the right attitude toward work and tasks by giving them chores at every stage.

Lead so their response reveals their ability.

Your kids will never believe in what they can do until they actually do it. Help them discover their abilities by giving them consistent opportunities to achieve something on their own.

Lead so their response matches their ability.

Consider their age and skill level, and use common sense. We are not advocating giving someone too much pressure or responsibility. That's why we also say...

Lead so their response grows their ability.

One of the most powerful principles attached to responsibility was something Jesus taught in a parable where he concluded, "If you are faithful with a little, you will be faithful with a lot." Start by giving them a few small things to do, and then graduate them to larger things.

Home should be the first job every kid ever has. What kind of experiences are you giving your children to prepare them to be responsible adults?

.....
For more blog posts
and parenting resources, visit:
ParentCue.org

RAISING RESPONSIBLE ADULTS

by Reggie Joiner

You're not raising kids, you're raising adults. The real question is what kind of adults are you raising? If you want your children to become responsible adults, then give them responsibilities now.

If you want to guarantee you will raise adults who don't know how to be responsible . . .

- Fix all your kids' problems.
- Protect them from experiencing any kind of physical or emotional pain.
- Make sure you do for them whatever they can do for themselves.
- Give them only what will make them happy. Actually, the best way to ensure your kids grow into unhappy adults is to give them whatever makes them happy as kids.

But if you want them to be fulfilled as adults, give them responsibilities.

Responsibility is an interesting word. It's actually two words: Response and ability. Do you see the link between the two? Help your kids develop the right attitude toward work and tasks by giving them chores at every stage.

Lead so their response reveals their ability.

Your kids will never believe in what they can do until they actually do it. Help them discover their abilities by giving them consistent opportunities to achieve something on their own.

Lead so their response matches their ability.

Consider their age and skill level, and use common sense. We are not advocating giving someone too much pressure or responsibility. That's why we also say...

Lead so their response grows their ability.

One of the most powerful principles attached to responsibility was something Jesus taught in a parable where he concluded, "If you are faithful with a little, you will be faithful with a lot." Start by giving them a few small things to do, and then graduate them to larger things.

Home should be the first job every kid ever has. What kind of experiences are you giving your children to prepare them to be responsible adults?

.....
For more blog posts
and parenting resources, visit:
ParentCue.org