

WEEK FOUR

JOHN 2:1-11

Jesus turns water into wine.

SAY
THIS

WHO CAN DO ANYTHING?
JESUS CAN DO ANYTHING.

WEEK FOUR

JOHN 2:1-11

Jesus turns water into wine.

SAY
THIS

WHO CAN DO ANYTHING?
JESUS CAN DO ANYTHING.

DO THIS

BATH TIME

Add a several cups to bath time this week. As you scoop and pour, talk about how Jesus turned water into super fancy party drink at the wedding. Only Jesus could do that! Jesus can do anything!

DO THIS

BATH TIME

Add a several cups to bath time this week. As you scoop and pour, talk about how Jesus turned water into super fancy party drink at the wedding. Only Jesus could do that! Jesus can do anything!

REMEMBER THIS

"With God all things are possible."
Matthew 19:26 NIV

REMEMBER THIS

"With God all things are possible."
Matthew 19:26 NIV

BASIC TRUTH

JESUS WANTS TO BE MY FRIEND FOREVER.

BASIC TRUTH

JESUS WANTS TO BE MY FRIEND FOREVER.

LITTLE IS THE NEW BIG

by Jon Acuff

Every kid needs to have a little fun. No, they need a lot of fun. Kids are wired for fun. The truth is that giving your kids fun over time helps prove to a kid you like them.

The funny thing about having big fun with your kids is that it doesn't take a big moment. Have you ever noticed that? The times you planned something expensive and complicated with your kids, and they barely blinked an eye. The time you washed the car in your driveway, threw sponges at each other, and they talked about forever.

Why does that happen?

I think it's the "cardboard box" effect. Every parent has had one of those moments when your child ignores the present you got them and instead goes gaga for the box it comes in. "No," you think to yourself, "that's just a cardboard box. The actual toy lights up and has laser beam sounds and is amazing." But your toy protests go ignored as they chew on their new favorite object on the planet.

The cardboard box effect continues as they get older and starts to apply to experiences, not just presents. I have forgotten week-long vacations as a child but still remember the night my dad put his hand in the Jello at dinner. My brothers and I lost our minds as he scooped out a big red handful of dessert as if it were the most normal thing in the world.

We had big fun because he did something little.

In your pursuit to have fun with your kids, don't put big pressure on yourselves.

Certainly there are moments that call for elaborate and detailed adventures, but little moments matter too.

A little trip to a bakery before school, a little water balloon fight, a little hand in the Jello—those are the fun kind of little moments that add up to big memories.

Cue: Do something little this week to have big fun with your kids, because fun over time proves to a kid you like them.

For more blog posts
and parenting resources, visit:

ParentCue.org

Download the free Parent Cue App
AVAILABLE FOR IOS AND ANDROID DEVICES

LITTLE IS THE NEW BIG

by Jon Acuff

Every kid needs to have a little fun. No, they need a lot of fun. Kids are wired for fun. The truth is that giving your kids fun over time helps prove to a kid you like them.

The funny thing about having big fun with your kids is that it doesn't take a big moment. Have you ever noticed that? The times you planned something expensive and complicated with your kids, and they barely blinked an eye. The time you washed the car in your driveway, threw sponges at each other, and they talked about forever.

Why does that happen?

I think it's the "cardboard box" effect. Every parent has had one of those moments when your child ignores the present you got them and instead goes gaga for the box it comes in. "No," you think to yourself, "that's just a cardboard box. The actual toy lights up and has laser beam sounds and is amazing." But your toy protests go ignored as they chew on their new favorite object on the planet.

The cardboard box effect continues as they get older and starts to apply to experiences, not just presents. I have forgotten week-long vacations as a child but still remember the night my dad put his hand in the Jello at dinner. My brothers and I lost our minds as he scooped out a big red handful of dessert as if it were the most normal thing in the world.

We had big fun because he did something little.

In your pursuit to have fun with your kids, don't put big pressure on yourselves.

Certainly there are moments that call for elaborate and detailed adventures, but little moments matter too.

A little trip to a bakery before school, a little water balloon fight, a little hand in the Jello—those are the fun kind of little moments that add up to big memories.

Cue: Do something little this week to have big fun with your kids, because fun over time proves to a kid you like them.

For more blog posts
and parenting resources, visit:

ParentCue.org

Download the free Parent Cue App
AVAILABLE FOR IOS AND ANDROID DEVICES